Short biography Joy Lohmann:

Joy is a German artist, designer and climate activist. He works in the field of social-sculpture, streetart and site-specific performance. Since his first floating island, made of upcycled materials for the world fair EXPO2000 in his hometown Hanover, he focusses on floating installations. Joy´s art is mostly realized in public spaces and was exhibited at BAUHAUS/Dessau, at the documenta fifteen, in galleries and on travelling (or floating) exhibitions in many countries; his „flow-garden" won the international „Social-Art-Award 2021". The ongoing „Open-Island" project series was documented in books, articles and the cinema movie „Träum weiter" (Dream on), 2021. With the Makers-For-Humanity collective, he just won the „Ocean Future Lab" hackathon and works now on a global open-source repository for appropriate knowledge for climate resilience on/with water.

Portrait Joy Lohmann
*1965 Germany

„FlowGarden", 2019,
5 floating islands on a lake in Hannover, 16 x 20m, made of upcycled material, showing the modular „Open-Island" float-system,

Winner of the „Social-Art-Award 2021"